With inTouch800 you can:

- Assess the success of your website
- Improve customer services and contact
- Increase responses from your website
- Generate highly targeted sales leads
- Talk to your visitors when they are most interested in your product
- Instantly know which product a caller wants to talk about
- Eliminate their fears of buying online

How does it work?

When your website visitor clicks on your 'Call Me' button a window appears, fully-branded with your company logo and colour scheme. The window asks for information such as their name, telephone number and email address. They can also specify a time they would like to be called back, although 95% of users ask to be called immediately.

This information is sent instantly to Encoded's intelligent telephone switches and at the chosen time the Call Back is automatically initiated.

Easy installation

The inTouch800 service can be installed into your website in minutes, and the cost is competitive with most Freephone 0800 numbers.
